Forensic Evidence & Your Client

Forensic science is now a key part of many criminal cases. The prosecution have access to a growing number of full-service and specialist forensic providers and juries can easily be swayed by high-tech science.

But forensic science often relies on interpreting complex scientific data produced from the tiniest traces of evidence. Doesn't your client deserve an independent and objective view of this evidence? Maybe there is undiscovered evidence that backs up your client's versions of events. Maybe there has been the potential for contamination of the forensic evidence.

Forensic Access offers your client an independent, objective and impartial forensic service.

Your Client's Access to Top Forensic Experts

Since 1986 Forensic Access has been challenging and testing forensic evidence. Forensic Access offers your client:

- Expert forensic scientists who have all previously worked for major forensic science providers;
- Highly skilled forensic scientists who have extensive experience of working with prosecution and defence and giving objective interpretations of scientific data
- Scientists who are highly skilled in acting as expert witnesses in Court.

Contamination? Misinterpretation? Previously Unfound, "Alternative" Evidence?

Our comprehensive service ranges from paper reviews of cases and case files, to re-examining exhibits and even visiting and examining crime scenes. Our forensic experts can help reconstruct the crime, critique original results and interpretation, scientifically test alternative scenarios, provide new avenues for scientific investigation and offer advice on the use of new forensic science technologies.

Building Your Client's Case

Clear interpretation and presentation of the forensic evidence in your client's case is vital and we offer full support services from case conferences, to briefing barristers, lawyers, CPS, defence/prosecution legal teams, etc. We prepare full reports, to your specification and Court-going statements.

Let Forensic Access challenge and test the science on behalf of your client.
